

Graduate Application for the Department of Exercise and Sport Sciences

Name: _____ Date: _____

The Department of Exercise and Sport Sciences has two options available for graduate study. Please select the option for which you are applying:

☐ Option 1. Web-Based Instruction (AMAP)

In this option, students take 83 percent (30 credits) of their graduate coursework online. More specifically, this means that all fall and spring semester classes may be taken on the Internet. Students are required in this option to take 17 percent (6 credits) of their classes at New Mexico Highlands University during a three-week summer session. Housing and a meal plan are provided for students during the intensive summer session. Additionally, help with application, registration, and financial aid are included in the cost of the program. Cost for this option is $3,500 per semester for four semesters (total cost $14,000).

☐ Option 2. Instruction at NMHU in Las Vegas, New Mexico

In this option, students must take more than 33 percent of their classes on campus. Although some web-based instruction is available in this option, students are expected to take courses during the fall and spring semesters at the Las Vegas, NM, campus. No housing or meal plan during the summer session is included.
